Detectives Bell and Broadus weren't able to give the names of the supposed millionaires arrested at the Seeibach for drinking whisky openly. It does seem possible that two ordinary detectives after holding a secret conference in the Night Chief's office might discover a clue to the identity of the two men, and Bell and Broadus might advance their theory as to why the two prisoners disappeared that night, not showing up in court the next morning. This was the case where the Herald reporter was assaulted for Detectives Bell and Broadus weren't Herald reporter was assaulted for even daring to take a peek at the prisoners. Chief Petty and the board might also explain or let the police censors explain the case of Sergeant Clyde Steepleton, a former street car motorman, who draws a salary from the public as a police sergeant. Following a dispute on a Market street car Saturday John J. Scherle, a twenty-year old boy, was badly beaten by a street car conductor, bad enough to be taken to
